

this before the piece begins, or if they will allow them to sit in their grief, waiting for the piece to end.

So often, the reality of violence in our world is brushed aside or covered up. With this piece, and all of its violence and expression of grief, I wish to face the reality and recognize the grief of the many lives that have been lost. Let this piece serve as a time to grieve together.

Spencer Brand

Preview

